RE: Annual Report

Dear Commodore Roberts:

The 1984 sailing season was a reasonably safe one. We had surgical residents on the Patrol Boats during the Spring and Fall Series with back-up on-call physicians who were racing. Once again, none of our members had to stop racing and the only true medical accident of the season was a crewman falling overboard in the Fall Series. He apparently sustained no permanent injury, although was cool for a period of time following his rescue.

I have no new suggestions to make for the new year, but would certainly like to thank the Race Secretary, Mr. William Ames, for his help in providing me with an early list of the entrants. This made it possible to have a more complete back-up compliment of physicians to cover the races.

Respectfully submitted,

Chester B. Humphrey, M.D.
